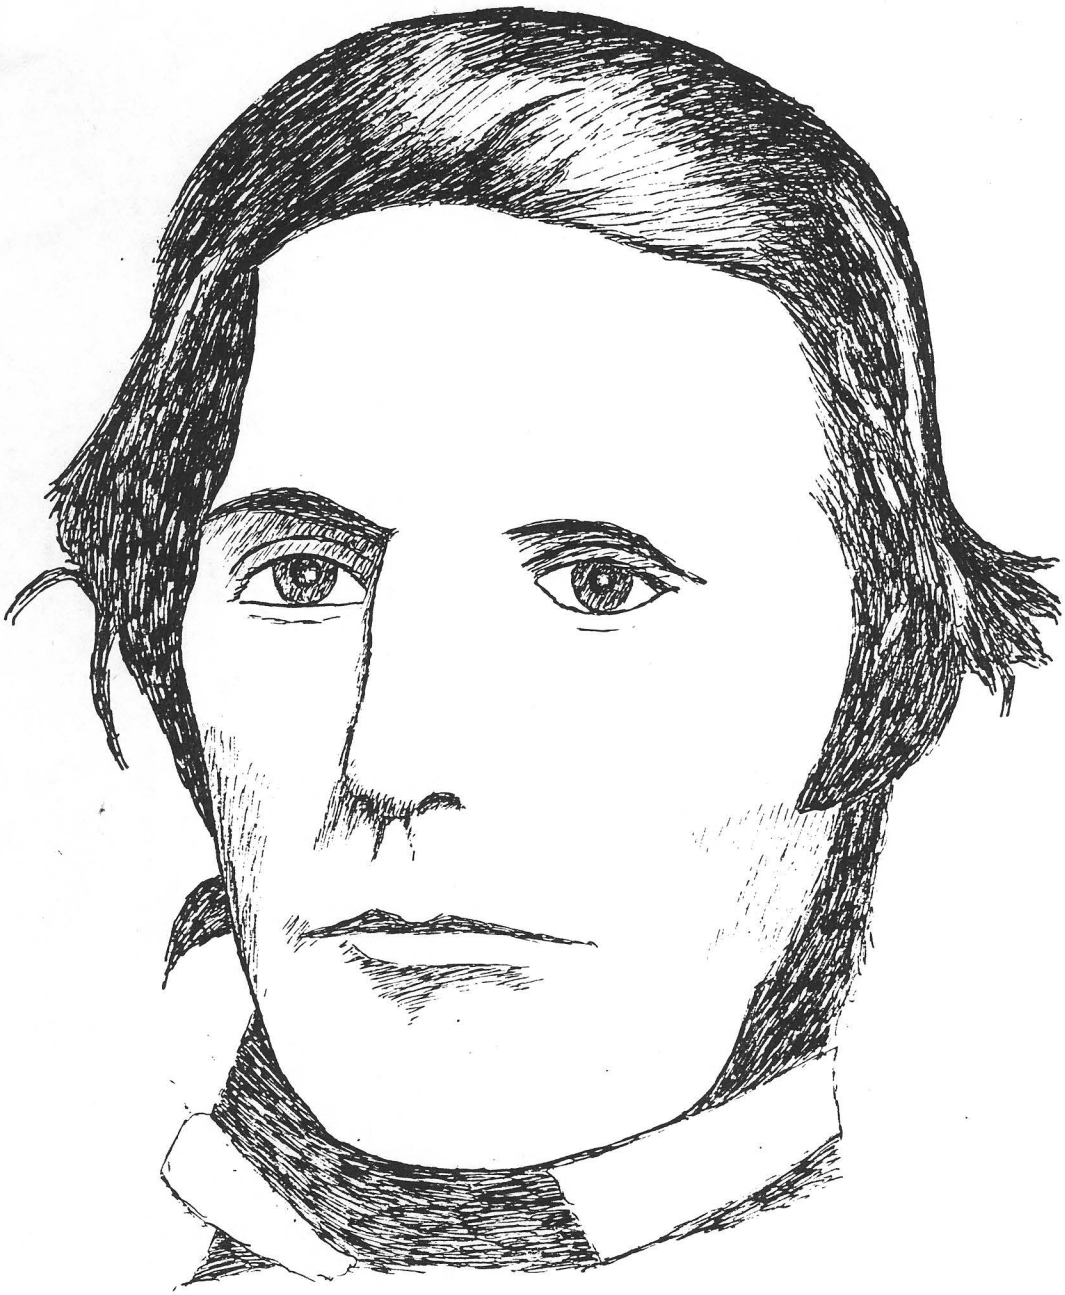
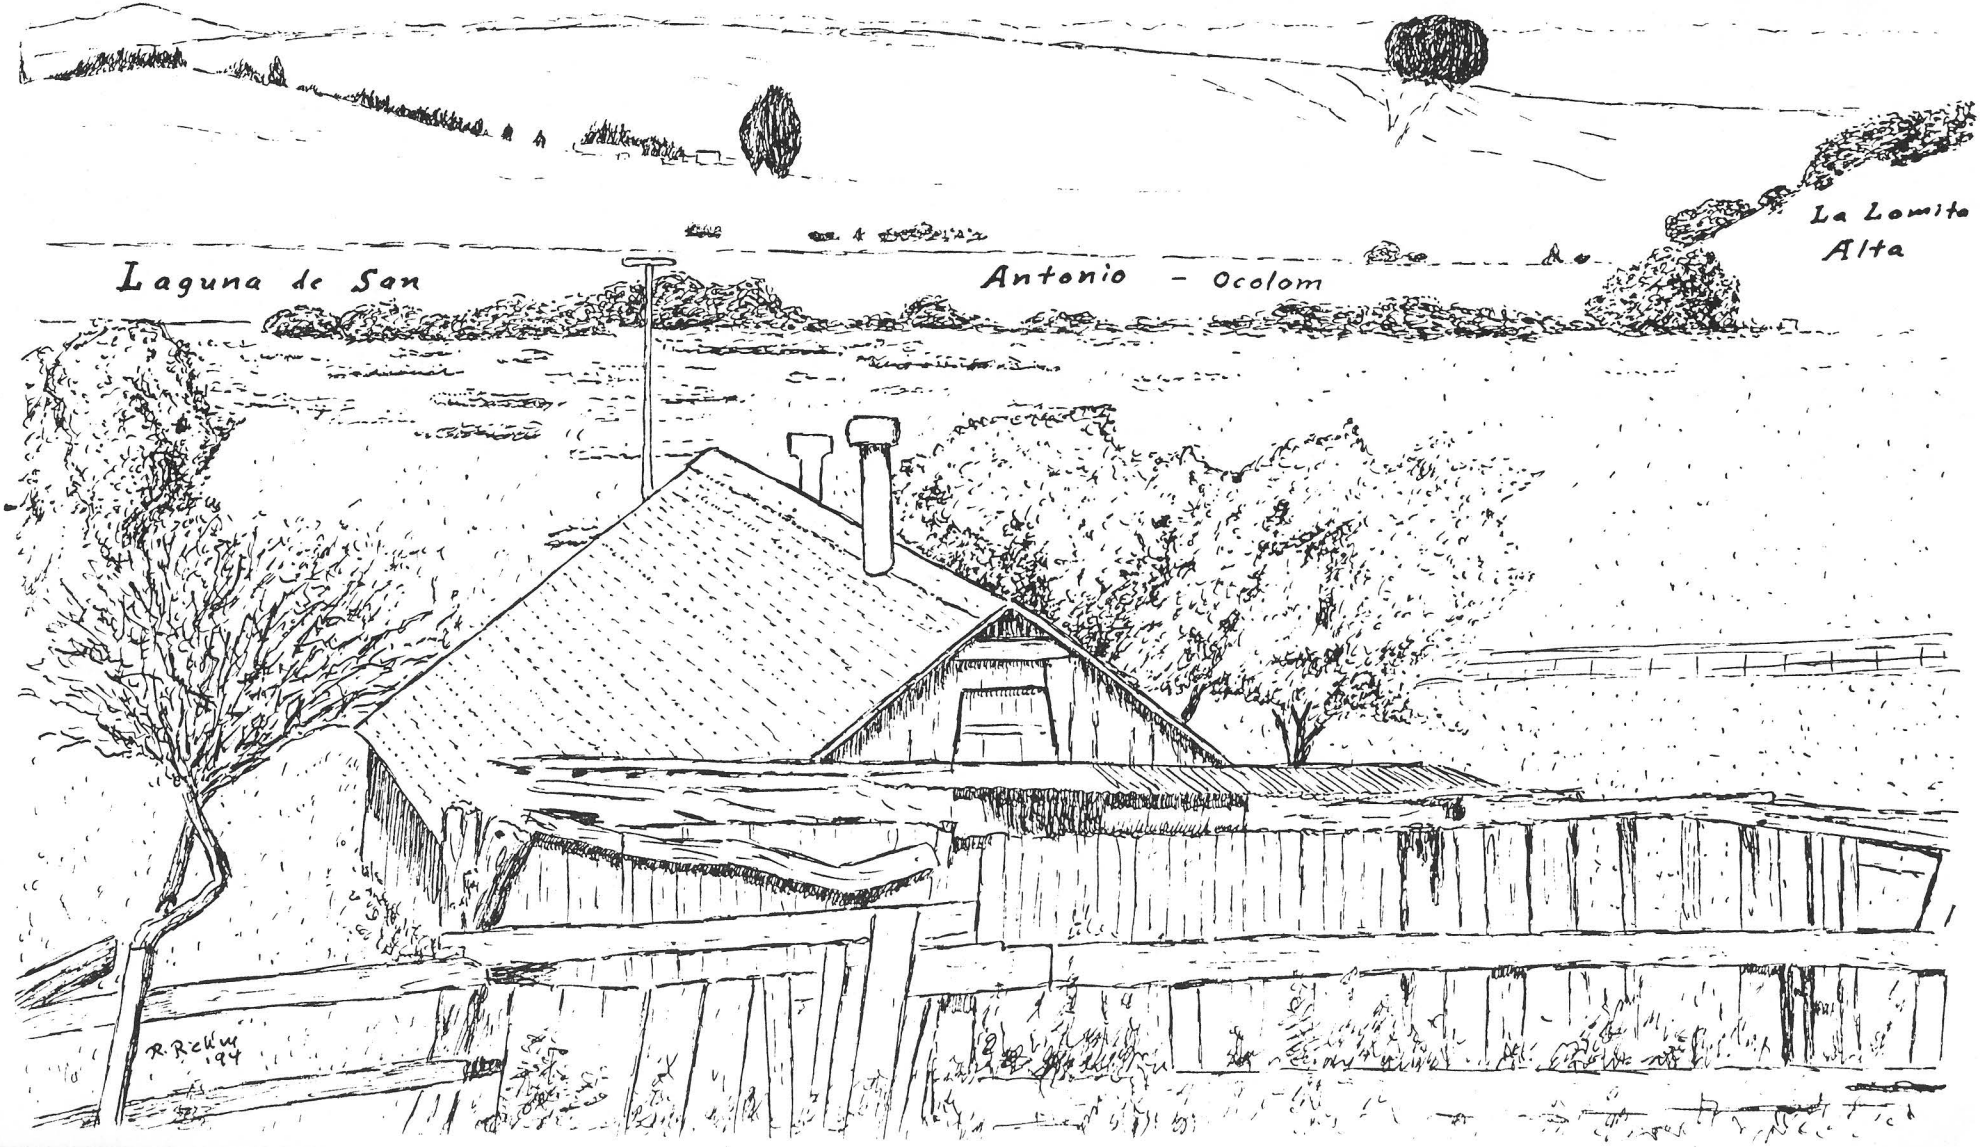
Part 2 & 6: the correct date of the death of Jose Geraldo Bojorques is Aug. 22, 1896, according to Mary Ann Crain a descendant who sent the information to Mrs. Nancy Henshall HER HUSBAND IS



Henry L. Ford took prisoners on June 24, 1846 at Laguna de San Antonio before the battle at Olompali

R. Rehm '94

Old cabin that stood until c. 1970



1. Spanish Town, left between San Antonio Creek and Chileno Valley Road West from the crossroads. The 1873 Marin Co. map shows it crossing onto the other side of the creek.

2. Log palizada of 1837 ? Adobe of c. 1839. Adobe burned in the 1850's.

3. Juan Bojorques adobe of the early 1840's. The rocky knoll is now bare.

4. Ocolom - Laguna de San Antonio, usually dry. The meaning of the Miwok name is unknown.

4a. La lomita alta - the high little hill.

5. Laguna Lake. Some old maps show this as the Laguna de San Antonio after the east lake had been drained and also after it had re-filled.

6. Angel Maria de la Luz Bojorques adobe. Razed in 1938. A tamped earth celler under a disused winery in the early 1970's may have some connection with it.

7. Talamantes area.

8. Williams area, in a hidden valley.

9. Poso de Agua - well, Santiago ? There is a tradition of an adobe way station hereabouts and I was told c. 1970, that when a chicken run was raised for new foundations old adobe bricks were found underneath it.

10. Santiago de las Dos Piedras. Trail from Misn. San Rafael to Bodega Fort Kuskov went between. Fr. Amoros of the Mission discovered Russians beginning to cultivate here in Jan. 1831. They left. Ranchos Rancho Laguna de San Antonio, Roblar de la Miseria, Blucher and Roblar de la Miseria came together here. M.G. Vallejo may have put an outpost here after Fr. Amoros finding the Russians here. Tamalinika named by the Russians after Tamil Miwok went along Stemple Creek to Bodega Bay. The actual Bolsa de Tomales was a widening of Tamilinik later Stemple Creek where some Indians lived and gave its name to that rancho. The Bolsa became known as Burbank Lake after an older brother of Luther Burbank built a large house above it. The house still stands.

11. Amayelle - warrior thoroughfare, Miwok site. May also be the site named Canada de San Vicente where there were two springs. On Oct. 20, 1822 Fr. Mariano Payeras president of the California missions, Don Agustin Fernandez de San Vicente, Imperial Commissioner and canon of Durango cathredral in Mexico who was overseeing the change from Spanish to Mexican rule in California, Don Luis Arguello the commander of San Francisco Presidio, Lt. Antonio del Valle, Sgt. Jose Herrera of Misn. San Rafael with a few private soldiers stayed overnight at San Vicente on their way to Fort Ross. I do not know if Bartolome Francisco Bojorques was one of the soldiers. San Vicente was evidently named at this time. This may not be the site.
Yesterday, May 3, 1994, Glenn Farris of the State of Calif. Parks told me that the San Vicente de la Frontera del Norte where the Russian courier came in 1811 or early 1812 with a message for commander Manuel Ruis about the Russians wanting to settle and trade with the Spanish in California was actually a Mission and Presidio in Baja California. This explains Ruiz's forwarding the message to Gov Goycoechea of Baja Calif. A message may have been sent to Alta California too, to Gov. Arrillaga ? It is puzzling that that the Russians would send a courier so far as Baja Calif. from the area they were to settle at Ross and Bodega except that San Vicente in Baja Calif. was military headquarters.
The San Vicente in Baja Calif. is probably where Jose Antonio Ezekial Carrillo was exiled by Gov. Victoria in 1831.

Thomas Williamson Harrison. The subject of this sketch is one of the oldest in Sonoma and Mendocino Counties, having settled in the former county early in the fall of 1852. He was born in Portsmouth, Norfolk county, Virginnia, Feb. 22, 1832. He resided in his native State till the fall of 1851, receiving in the meantime his education. Having a desire to see the gold fields of California, he shipped on board the ship Eclipse at New York and sailed around Cape Horn, arriving in San Francisco about the middle of April 1852. He went to the mines and spent the summer, and in the fall came to Sonoma county, where he remained till 1859. He then came to Mendocino county and opened a store at Sanel which he conducted about one year. He then sold out and returned to Sonoma County, where he had a stock ranch. In the fall of 1864 he opened a store in Geyserville, in that county, which he conducted about six months, when he disposed of it. He returned to Mendocino county in 1868 and in the fall of 1869 went into the clerk's office in Ukiah as Deputy under James Fowzer, remaining there about eighteen months. Mr. Harrison was married in the fall of 1869 to the widow of W. E. Connor and a granddaughter of Bartolo Bojorques of Petaluma. By this marriage he has at this date, November 1880, five children: Eva Ramona, born Aug. 31, 1870; Ann, b. June 13, 1873; Josephine Ella, b. Nov. 3, 1875; Harriett, b. Aug. 9, 1878; Maddox Robinson, b. July 30, 1880. Mr. Harrison is at present living about two miles south of Ukiah on a small farm which he cultivates himself, and also holds the office of County Surveyor.

Note: Husband and wife seperated and she went to southern California where her parents, brothers and sisters lived. There is an article on his brother Edward C. Harrison - Hist. of S.F. Bay Region by Bailey Millard, 1924 Vol.III, p. 115-116, and three sons. His son Marice E. Harrison is in The Hist. of S.F. by Lewis Francis Byington and Oscar Lewis, 1931, Vol. 2, pp. 374-6.

A short copyright article about the survey party for the site of a new pueblo to be called Santa Ana y Farias after the president and vice president of Mexico in 1834 by Rodolfo Larios, mentions a Ignacio Higuera as being one of the soldiers. This is probably Jose Ygnacio Teodoro Higuera who was to become the 2nd. husband of Juana Maria Bojorques. Santa Ana was the same who led the Mexican army at the Alamo in Texas. The town was to be founded by the Hijar-Padres colony from Mexico who were not rancho-frontier types and who abandoned the site because of fear of Indians. Some huts were still here from M.G. Vallejo's attempt to start settlements here and where he was to start his Rancho Petaluma adobe in 1836. Vallejo was commander of the Northern Frontier in California. Vallejo's settlers were native Californians and he had erected a temporary presidio shown on the diseno of Mark West's Rancho San Miguel It is not shown on another diseno of this grant. Mark West was an Englishman who married Guadalupe Vasquez and who settled on the Santa Ana y Farias site in the late 1830's. A smallpox epidemic had killed most of the north bay Indians in 1838. It had started at Fort Ross. Two of the Bojorques neighbors had come to Calif. in 1834 with the Hijar-Padres colony. Juan N. padilla the grantee of Roblar de la Miseria and Bolsa de Tomales and Antonio Ortega of Arroyo de San Antonio. The colonists were to be sent to the Lagoon of San Antonio if it could be arranged by M.G. Vallejo so as not to be in the way of Petaluma Indians before going to the Santa Ana y Farias site. The actual site was where Mark West Creek comes out of the hills and is shown as the H.C. Meizer property on the 1877 Sonoma Co. Atlas. The late Mrs. Elsie Mazzini said that some modern houses were partly built on West family graves. The area has become built up in recent years. Potquiyomi was the Indian name for the site.
